

New and exciting winter menu in La Boheme restaurant

Fall is in full force, the catch is harvested from the fields and gardens, and our stock for the winter-period is nicely placed in the basement of the manor. Closer to nature and inspired by the gifts from autumn the chef of Vihula Manor Lauri Tomingas put together a new menu, which includes moss of the Lahemaa forests, moose meat, rowans and chokeberries, wild apples and lingonberries, and of course products from neighbouring farms, like carrots and potatoes. All the dishes on the menu are compared with delicious wines by our sommelier to bring out the maximum amount of flavours. You can definitely find something interesting from the starters selection, just to give you a little hint that there are dishes made with moos moss and acorns.

From the right hand side: head chef of Vihula Manor Country Club & Spa Lauri Tomingas and Karl-Gregor Rauniste from Kreuzwald Hotel Tallinn Nipernaadi restaurant in the manor basement full of winter stock.

From the main courses we recommend orange, onion, and saffron pike with a soft cream made of peas or a zander fish compared with wines like 2011 Chablis AC, Domaine Vignau or 2013 Verdicchio Castelli di Jesi Bordolese DOC, Azienda St. Barbara, Marche. Dessert is clearly worth an order because it is a definite cherry on top after your main course. A scheming option is an ice-cream sprinkled with syrup from spruce or semolina mousse with pumpkin sorbet, chocolate and cherries. You are most welcomed to enjoy the mix of tastes from farms and forests of Lahemaa on your plate in La Boheme restaurant!
